NASHVILLE, September 14.—The interest ng question whether two sets of candidate for the legislature will be turned out in this county to-morrow, is the absorbing topic of conversation to-day and to-night. such project, but that all the influential political and commercial element of the country would oppose it bitterly. But with the third advent of Grantism it was to be revived. The friends and adherents of General Grant never cease to regret the times which prevailed under his administration, which they fondly designate as the days of the empire. It is not astonishing that they were so anxious for a return of those days, for if they are to be credited, the acquisition of territory to be credited, the acquisition of territory rich in mines of precious metals was only a small part of the splendid programme mapped out for the third term, and Washington was to rival the extravagance and the magnificence of Paris when the third Napoleon was in the zenith of his power."
